

Sharing and shaping the future together at the PACE Learning & Development Forum 2016

For the first time ever the annual Professional Association for Catering Education (PACE) Learning & Development Forum is moving to London on the 9-11 March 2016 at the Hilton London Docklands. The two day event is set to be dynamic with an exciting programme and key focus on the future generations of the catering and hospitality industry.

The only UK forum dedicated to schools, colleges and universities offering culinary and hospitality courses, the 2016 PACE Learning & Development Forum is the best practice benchmark for all hospitality and culinary education professionals and associated organisations.

Keynote conference sessions will be delivered by high profile industry experts discussing topics such as the future of food, excellence in customer service and funding for the future. In addition to this, delegates will have the opportunity to attend skill-enhancing workshops which will cover courses and resources, good practice in teaching English and Maths and different models of commercialisation for hospitality and catering colleges.

The programme also welcomes back the inclusion of live hospitality and culinary masterclasses showcasing demonstrations on housekeeping from Pennyhill Park's Head Housekeeper, front of house technology with Adrian Valeriano, OpenTable International Ltd, global food trends with Martin Morales, Ceviche and edible bugs with Adam Routledge and Matt Anderson, Edible Bug Farm.

The PACE Learning & Development Forum brings together a plethora of professionals working in the catering education sector in the spirit of sharing and exchanging ideas to ensure the continued excellence across the board.

The PACE exhibition, running alongside the forum, gives delegates the opportunity to link with more than 40 manufacturers and suppliers to explore, experience, sample and test the very latest food, drink, technology, equipment and services appropriate for catering education establishments.

There will also be the opportunity to meet with hospitality operators during the Friday morning 'meet the employer' networking brunch and exhibition showcase. This complements PACE's ongoing work to raise the profile of the number of exciting hospitality job opportunities and build mutually-beneficial links between industry employers and colleges.

The prestigious PACE Awards will be presented on the evening of Thursday 10 March awarding individuals, departments, schools, colleges and partnerships that have introduced outstanding learning initiatives or techniques in hospitality training and development over the last 12 months.

The coveted awards on offer include Partnership with Industry Award; Best Chef Lecturer; Best Hospitality Lecturer; Best Restaurant Service Lecturer; Award for Environmental Sustainability; Lifetime Achievement Award.

For further information and to book a delegate place at the PACE Learning & Development Forum 2016 please visit www.mcculloughmoore.co.uk/pace or call a member of the team on 0870 7779566.